The Centre for Strategic Communication Excellence welcomes its newest Fellow.

Gloria Walker, FCSCE, FRSA, FHEA, GCSCE, ABC, is a communication consultant, researcher, and university lecturer based in London, England. She is an Associate Lecturer in MA public relations and media programmes at the London College of Communication.

Gloria has held positions in the US and Europe in corporate communications, internal communications, public relations and public affairs, both in-house and in consultancy. She has taught in undergraduate and graduate programmes in the US, the UK and Thailand.

“With a career spanning over 35 years, Gloria has taken every opportunity to demonstrate her leadership in the communication profession. She is marked by a consistent and impactful presence across various local, national, and international associations, showcasing her dedication to advancing the field and fostering professional growth. I have had the honour of working closely with Gloria through her volunteer leadership with the International Association of Business Communicators (IABC) and witnessed her passion for advancing our profession,” said Adrian Cropley, OAM – Founding Partner of the Centre for Strategic Communication Excellence.

Gloria has demonstrated leadership within the field of strategic communication management and continues to share her deep knowledge as an active mentor to students, young professionals, and clients. “I have always believed that each of us has a responsibility to give back to the profession. To demonstrate this belief, I have taken an active role in many professional associations,” says Gloria. It is this quality that demonstrates why she has been recognised by the Centre for Strategic Communication Excellence as their latest Fellow.
